

Protect your Animals from Disaster

What would happen if a fire or flood forced you from home?

Are you prepared?

If you haven't already done the following things to safeguard your pets, get started today!

1. Swap keys with a trusted neighbour who can get your pets if disaster strikes while you are out. Make sure the neighbour knows how many pets you have and their names.
2. Keep a spare leash and dish in your car with treats.
3. License and microchip all of your pets.
4. Identify at least one place you can evacuate with your animals.
5. Keep a photo of yourself and each of your animals in your wallet.
6. Make sure you have an emergency alert sticker on all doors to notify appropriate personal as to how many animals you have in your home.

Protect your Animals from Disaster

What would happen if a fire or flood forced you from home?

Are you prepared?

If you haven't already done the following things to safeguard your pets, get started today!

1. Swap keys with a trusted neighbour who can get your pets if disaster strikes while you are out. Make sure the neighbour knows how many pets you have and their names.
2. Keep a spare leash and dish in you car with treats.
3. License and microchip all of your pets.
4. Identify at least one place you can evacuate with your animals.
5. Keep a photo of yourself and each of you animals in your wallet.
6. Make sure you have an emergency alert sticker on all doors to notify appropriate personal as to how many animals you have in your home.

Protect your Animals from Disaster

What would happen if a fire or flood forced you from home?

Are you prepared?

If you haven't already done the following five things to safeguard your pets, get started today!

1. Swap keys with a trusted neighbour who can get your pets if disaster strikes while you are out. Make sure the neighbour knows how many pets you have and their names.
2. Keep a spare leash and dish in your car with treats.
3. License and microchip all of your pets.
4. Identify at least one place you can evacuate with your animals.
5. Keep a photo of yourself and each of your animals in your wallet.
6. Make sure you have an emergency alert sticker on all doors to notify appropriate personal as to how many animals you have in your home.

Protect your Animals from Disaster

What would happen if a fire or flood forced you from home?

Are you prepared?

If you haven't already done the following five things to safeguard your pets, get started today!

1. Swap keys with a trusted neighbour who can get your pets if disaster strikes while you are out. Make sure the neighbour knows how many pets you have and their names.
2. Keep a spare leash and dish in you car with treats.
3. License and microchip all of your pets.
4. Identify at least one place you can evacuate with your animals.
5. Keep a photo of yourself and each of you animals in your wallet.
6. Make sure you have an emergency alert sticker on all doors to notify appropriate personal as to how many animals you have in your home.

London Dog Owners

Association

www.londondogownersassociation.ca

Phone: 453-9452
Fax: 453-7929

London Dog Owners

Association

www.londondogownersassociation.ca

Phone: 453-9452
Fax: 453-7929

London Dog Owners

Association

www.londondogownersassociation.ca

Phone: 453-9452
Fax: 453-7929

London Dog Owners

Association

www.londondogownersassociation.ca

Phone: 453-9452
Fax: 453-7929